

THE ROYAL POINCIANA PLAZA SHOPPING DAY

July 16, 2018

I'm excited to share today's post with you! Since moving into our home a little over a year ago, Casey and I have been trying to explore some new places to go to as a family. We've really been loving Palm Beach area, which is just a little north of us. Palm Beach is a tiny, quaint, special little place, with tons of history, charm, and sophistication.

We spent an early afternoon shopping at The Royal Poinciana Plaza. The Royal is an iconic destination that was built in the late 1950s. It stands today as a landmarked property and one of Palm Beach's most treasured architectural gems, designed by John Volk. This restored retail space offers a unique shopping and entertainment experience, and is the perfect place to come to and enjoy the day with your family.

The Cittadinos were on a mission to update our swimsuit collection. To no surprise, mission accomplished! Here's an overview of our day...

Beach by Everything But Water

Beach by Everything But Water was made for me! There wasn't a single item in this store that I didn't want to take home and put in my closet! They carry all of my favorite swimsuit brands along with the cutest cover-ups, beach dresses, and accessories.

This swimsuit was gifted by Everything But Water. It's part of their new EBW Collection, and it fits like a dream! So so flattering!

Orlebar Brown

What a fun and colorful store! Casey tried on some of the cutest swim shorts! While it was hard to pick a favorite, I made him keep the ones with the flamingos on them [pictured below].

Collective

This store is stunning! It's a mix of day to night wear, designer and contemporary clothing, jewelry, and accessories. Each piece was prettier than the next! I could have gotten myself into some major trouble in this store! Haha!! My favorite piece was a black swimsuit from Zimmermann [pictured below].

Cremieux

Casey had a Julia Roberts “Pretty Woman” moment in this store, and I am being completely serious about that! LOL! The shopping center was quiet when we went [which was so nice by the way], so Casey was able to get one on one attention while in this store. Again, we were on a hunt to get some new swimwear, but he couldn't help himself and needed to try on everything in Cremieux! He ended up getting himself swim shorts, a sweatshirt, AND a sports coat.

Bognar & Piccolini

Oh Harley.... as you can imagine, she was beyond excited to explore in a store that was made for her! Bognar & Piccolini offers a selection of items made of European quality, fine fabrics, and unique patterns for newborns, boys and girls up to the age of six years old. The teeny bikini Harley ended up getting is possibly one of the cutest things I've ever seen her in! She of course wanted EVERYTHING in here!

theory

By the time we got to Theory, both kids were getting a little antsy and #Hangry, so Casey and I didn't get to try on any of their gorgeous swimwear. I'm obsessed with the Onia X Theory Collection, so might end up going back to try on some pieces.

Our last stop was at The Honor Bar, which is now my new favorite restaurant! The food was SO.GOOD. So fresh, so delicious, SO GOOD! Their Kale Salad might be the best salad I've ever had, and Casey's Chicken Sandwich was incredible!

Overall, we had such a fun [and successful] day! If you live in South Florida or have any plans to visit the area, I highly recommend you come to The Royal Poinciana Plaza to walk around, explore, shop, and eat!

photos by Heather Holt Photo

Thank you to The Royal Poinciana Plaza for sponsoring this post. As always, all opinions are 100% my own!

Love, Jaime