

One-Stop Shops on The Island

By Quest on Tuesday, January 22, 2019

Assouline
340 Royal Poinciana Way / 561.791.6051

Since 1994, Assouline has been known for bringing luxury to the publishing industry with its glossy coffee table books on fashion, art, architecture, photography, and design, which are equally as informational as they are beautiful. The attention to detail, passion, and top level of craftsmanship that is put into each work yields the highest quality of books in the world. One of the brand's new and notable tomes includes Windows at Tiffany & Co., which features a tour of the jeweler's intricately crafted displays.

Serenella 340 Royal Poinciana Way / 561.220.2442

For over 37 years, Serenella has been a top destination for fashion presented in a chic, refined, elegantly minimalistic atmosphere. As a multi-brand boutique featuring top designers such as Bottega Veneta, Alexandre Birman, Oscar de la Renta, Emilio Pucci, Versace, and Tabitha Simmons, devoted customers—both cosmopolitan and international—have developed an inseparable connection with the shop. The curated experience is led by Leslee Shupe, who consistently follows fashion's ever-changing trends to impress the brand's elite consumers.

Cremieux 340 Royal Poinciana Way / 561.255.1884

During the 1960s, Daniel Cremieux, a French native, traveled to New York and immediately fell in love with preppy menswear and traditional American brands—he was inspired to bring this style back home with him. Cremieux, who aimed to create the best French preppy clothing brand out there, launched a line in 1976 and opened his first retail shop in Saint-Tropez. Soon after, Cremieux introduced additional locations in Paris and Aix-en-Provence, and now has boutiques all over the world featuring his luxury French-American menswear collections.

The Grand Tour 340 Royal Poinciana Way / 561.660.7883

The Grand Tour, a 2,000-square-foot design destination curated by Caroline Rafferty and her mother, Julie Fisher Cummings, will open next month at The Royal Poinciana Plaza. The display will feature an ever-changing collection of vintage and contemporary finds from around the world. Sought-after antiques, artisanal furnishings, and sumptuous textiles blend old and new—each telling a unique story of time and place. The Grand Tour will also become the new home of Caroline Rafferty Interiors—an interior design atelier known for creating colorful residences in Palm Beach and New York.

Joey Wölffer 340 Royal Poinciana Way / 561.469.9368

Originally debuted as the Styleliner Truck, the world's first luxury accessories boutique on wheels has evolved into Joey Wölffer's namesake brand—a nationwide constellation of year-round and seasonal boutiques. With two permanent locations in Sag Harbor and Palm Beach, the shops serve as a unique retail destinations—each a treasure trove of Hamptons-inspired women's jewelry, clothing, and accessories specializing in vintage finds and new items from artisan-inspired designers here and abroad.

Valentina Kova 340 Royal Poinciana Way / 561.444.2157

Inspired by real women around the globe, Valentina Kova is dedicated to creating effortlessly chic, comfortable clothing with a fabulous fit. The label is known for its use of the finest fabrics, including Italian cashmere, silk, cotton, and wool. In addition to apparel, you will come across exquisite collections of jewelry with both contemporary and classic options—all crafted from the most precious diamonds and gemstones by master jewelers in New York. Whether you find a perfect strand of Australian pearls or a stylish outfit, your heart will skip a beat after visiting Valentina Kova.